

36

Chasing the Open dream

Not content with the global acclaim received by Kingsbarns, developer Mark Parsinen has spent the past few years working on another spectacular Scottish project, in collaboration with architect Gil Hanse. With Castle Stuart only a few weeks away from opening, Tom Mackin met Parsinen to talk about Scotland, design, development — and his dream of hosting the Open Championship

44

A better model?

Landfill-based projects can transform the economics of golf courses, and rehabilitate previously barren sites. But what are the challenges, asks Adam Lawrence?

08 Tee Box

The long-heralded sibling to Spain's Valderrama is almost ready to begin construction, according to club president Felipe Ortiz Patiño. Plus a full round up of golf development happenings

25 The Player

Canadian Mike Weir has picked a tough time to try and break into the design business. But he and partner Ian Andrew believe they have the right recipe

26 The Pioneer

George Lowe shouldn't be dismissed as a typical designer of the Dark Age, says Steve Pope. His surviving work at courses such as Lytham, Birkdale and Southport & Ainsdale proves that

32 Tim Lobb

Golf courses must fit their cultural environment as well as their physical surroundings

35 Doug Carrick

The realities of golf and real estate development

52 On Site

There's a Northern European focus to our course review section in this issue, featuring Royal Hague in the Netherlands, Föhr and Budersand off the coast of Germany, and Kyle Phillips's new course for the PGA of Sweden in Malmo

72 Holing Out

A visit to Falkenstein in Germany got Adam Lawrence thinking about how classic golf courses should be cared for

GOLF COURSE ARCHITECTURE

Golf Course Architecture is published with the support and guidance of the European Institute of Golf Course Architects, the European Golf Course Owners Association, the American Society of Golf Course Architects and the Golf Environment Organisation.

European Institute of Golf Course Architects

The European Institute of Golf Course Architects represents Europe's most qualified and experienced golf course architects. The Institute's aims are to enhance the status of the profession, increase opportunities for its members and educate future golf course architects.
www.eigca.org

European Golf Course Owners Association

The mission of the European Golf Course Owners Association is to provide services to support golf course owners, represent their interests on a European level and improve the golf business on a European level.
www.egcoa.eu

American Society of Golf Course Architects

Formed in 1946 by Donald Ross, Robert Trent Jones and others, ASGCA is the professional organisation of North American golf course architects. The 180 architects who have achieved membership in the prestigious group have designed some of the world's greatest courses.
www.asgca.org

Golf Environment Organisation

Since its launch in 1993 as the European Golf Association Ecology Unit, GEO has established partnerships with Europe's major golf organisations and been a catalyst across the sector. It brings together scientists and industry leadership figures who recognise the need for action.
www.golfenvironment.org

Printed in Great Britain by The Manson Group, Reynolds House, St Albans, AL3 6PZ

© 2009 Tudor Rose Holdings Ltd. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be stored or transmitted or reproduced in any form or by any means, including whether by photocopying, scanning, downloading onto computer or otherwise without the prior written permission from Tudor Rose Holdings Ltd.

Views expressed in Golf Course Architecture are not necessarily those of the publishers. Acceptance of advertisements does not imply official endorsement of the products or services concerned. While every care has been taken to ensure accuracy of content, no responsibility can be taken for any errors and/or omissions. Readers should take appropriate professional advice before acting on any issue raised herein.

Golf Course Architecture is published by Tudor Rose, Tudor House, 6 Friar Lane, Leicester, LE1 5RA, England. ISSN 1745-3585

The publisher reserves the right to accept or reject advertising material and editorial contributions. The publisher assumes no liability for the return of unsolicited art, photography or manuscripts.

It is assumed that any images taken from sources which are widely distributed, such as on the Web, are in the public domain. It is recognised though that since such images tend to be passed freely between sources it is not always possible to track the original source. If copyrighted material has ended up being treated as public domain due to the original source not being identified please contact the publisher, Tudor Rose.

Subscribe

Subscribe for a year (four issues):

UK delivery » £19.80
Europe delivery » £27.80
Rest of the world delivery » £35.80

» Call our subscriptions team on: +44 116 222 9900
» Complete the online form at: www.golfcoursearchitecture.net

If you would like to order copies of back issues please call us on +44 116 222 9900 or visit our back issues page on the Web site.